						ratepayers. Which I understand the ratepayer are paying the council however renters are also to blame to waste so I believe incentives should be extended to renters or home occupiers.  Composting education and incentives should be along side your priority on the waste avoidance pyramid. As composting can take over 60% of organic waste out of the waste stream.
						A great way to educate the next generation and/or educate the community would be great to have a local community composting station run by the	•

						Also Since I rent I cant put green waste (lawn clippings or tree trimmings) back on the garden. This is common for most rentals. So can the council investigate a bin for those green waste.	Composting is already recognised within the waste hierarchy there is a significant focus and recognition of the need to improve organic waste management. It is considered this is The other major suggestion would be to replicate a recycling market similar to "The Logan Recycling Market". There is plenty of usable waste being	adequately covered in SO11.  A range of options on how a Council of this size can effectively support community composting will be considered, this is already identified in SO11. Further information has been
